How Colored Lamps Are Made

"Almost everybody supposes that these little globes are made of colored glass," said an electric light where the other morning, picking up one of the colored incandescent lamps preparatory fo fastening it in a large illuminating sign, "but the color is not in the glass; it is only laid on the outside. There's where the globe was dipped," and as he held up the lamp for inspection, a tinge of red color could be seen extending like a thin film around the phrase top on the lamp, and showing brass top on the lamp, and showing plainly that the brilliant red had been gained by plunging the completed lamp into a liquid. To look at the colored incandecents as they are used in decorating halls or forming illuminated signs, almost anyone would take it for granted that their coloring was in the composition of the glass in composition requires a preparation of gold and copper, and is too expensive to satisfy the ordinary demands of business. The companies have therefore been driven to find some cheap substitute for genuice colored giass, and that substitute nine colored glass, and that substitute uine colored glass, and that substitute is now obtained by covering the globes with a liquid coloring matter and allowing them to dry. The effect is just as good as if the globes were of gonnine colored glass, but the coloring is not so lasting. It way be washed off or it may face, and until the coloring process is perfected, the color can be decended on in any case for long not be depended on in any case for long use without renewal. Although it might at first be thought that this ould be used for coloring the method could be used for coloring the glass used in all kinds of signal lamps the large colored globes in drugglas's windows, or anything else where col-ored glass is wanted, it is easy to see that whenever a flame comes in prox-imity to glass colored by the cheap method, the color, made up as it is with steephen and anythamphic gum

Draining The Lakes.

Draining The Lakes.

The drainage cansi which Chicage is constructing has caused such fears and jealousies in other lake cities that the question is to be investigated by a commission of engineers whether the reduction of the water level of the lakes will be great enough to interfere with trade. The question is not now raised for the first time, but recent events have brought it more prominently into public view.

The notion that a canal to connect the laked with the Blinois river, and so with the Mississippi river and so with the Mississippi river and so with the Mississippi and the Gulf of draining the lakes to the extent of interfering with travel seems rather strained and improbable, but it has been seriously debated by engineers, who are not agreed in their estimates.

HONG KONG PLAGUE.

Fear In China.

Washington, June 26.—The United States Consul at Foo Chow, China, re-ports the appearance of the Hong Kong piague at that place. He says Kong plague at that place. He says that it is already established as an epidemic, but that, so far, it is confined to the city proper. He adds:

"There is no question or doubt about the epidemic in the city being identi-cal with that which last year caused such mortality in Hong Kong and Canton and other Chinese ports. The circumstances attending circumstances attending its ap-pearance and progress unmis-takably stamp it as the plague; and in the infected districts within the city the rats are dying in great numbers, just as has been the invaria-ble rule wherever the plague has shown itself in the past.

In a city like Foo Chow it is impossible to institute any sort of saqitard by and see men of my race massacred by barbarians."

In is opinion he was upheld not only by American popular approval, but by the National Government.

farmers to raise more fowls. It requires two or three years to produce a steer for market, but only a few months need clapse before a large number of chicks can be marketed. The farmer has always a home market for his poultry on his own table, and be can avoid high prices for beef by substituting poultry in place of the more expensive meat. In this section of the United States there are large edities, as well as smaller towns, that will take all the poultry offered, but the consumption of poultry on the three did also reduce the supply and increase the profits or those that are shipped away.

A strange and fatal expression of the power of high explosives occurred at the Judson Dynamite Works, near Berkley. In the mixing department was used a wooden plow, which had become saturated with the materials which in combination forms nitrogreen. This plow was in need of repair. It was taken 1,000 feet from the building in order that the peril of explosion might be lessened. L. N. Hoffman, the general foreman, stood near the plow directing the work, and contains a contain strate of and Frank Koster were making the repairs.

The Mirror and Farmer says. high prices for beef should encour The Mirror and Farmer says: The high prices for beef should encourage farmers to raise more fowls. It re-quires two or three years to produce a steer for market, but only a few months need elapse before a large number of chicks can be marketed. The farmer has always a home market for his poultry on his own table, and for his poultry on his own table, and he can avoid high prices for beef by substituting poultry in place of the more expensive meat. In this section of the United States there are large cities, as well as smaller towns, that will take silt the poultry offered, but the consumption of poultry on the farms should also reduce the supply and increase the profits on those that are shipped away.

Depredating Dogs and Poultry

Dogs are a nuisance and a menace to poultry-men. There is but one way to teach owners of dogs that they must keep tiem at home, and that is to compet them to say damages. Do not shoot the dog or violate the law yourself, but endeavor to have wine-seese of the dogs work, send a bill to the owner covering your loss, and if he does not pay, sue him for it, but do not go into the court unless you are sure you can prove your claim beyond dispute. Avoid going into law always it possible, but if farmers will make the owners of dogs pay for all damages it will not be long before there will be fewer dogs.—Mirror and must keep them at home, and that is damages it will not be long before there will be fewer dogs.—Mirror and Farmer.

In every instance, but what pleases an highly educated, up-todate mechanical expert, who is thoroughly posted on the con-struction of bicycles, from a wheelman's standpoini, as well as that of a strictly high-grade machanic, is a pretty good pointer to buyers who are in search of the best the market affords.

LOUISVILLE, Kr., June 15, 1895.

R. F. Maxwell, Mgr. Indiana Biegele Co., City:

DEAR SIR—Referring to the Waverley biegele which I bought of you a few weeks ago, I will candidly don't that I am delighted with it. My first impression was one of surprise at the case and smoothness of its motion. It appears to be ample strong and substantial in construction devery one must admit that it is most graceful in appearance. I consider it a strictly high grade machine; otherwise Ishould not have bought it. It is all you claim it to be. Wishing you well merited success, I remain yours truly.

Miners Unable to Stand the Tor ture—Savage Natives Alone Are Successful.

Gold in plenty may be found in the sands of the Volador river—a stream of moderate volumn that comes tumbling from the snow line of the Sierra de St. Martha, in South America—but, though the lowland region and the river bed where the precious metal abounds in fabulous quantities are ossible and the river bed where the precious metal abounds in fabulous quantities are so thick and terrible there that all attempts to rifle the sands of their gold have so far falled, says the New York World.

lie told the news to the French. Vice Cousai at Rio Hacha, and this office obtained the concession of this El Dorado. The dangers he was to encounter he knew perfectly well. He took with him when he started an ingeniously constructed gauze tent of large dimentics. For two days he tried to live under its shelter and watch the operations of his workmen, who toiled in the stifling heat, clothed in thick garments and protected by heavy boots, cloves and valle. At the end of the second day, however, both employer and employes, with one accord, gave up the struggle and retreated.

Yet there are human beings wh can venture with impunity into this hell whose guardian demons are moshell whose guardian demons are mos-quitoes, and these are some of the savage natives of the mountains from whose rocky steeps the river comes tumbling down. These natives who are mequito proof are rendered so by their bedies being covered with the scales of that awful disease, laprosy. Strange to say, the mosquitoes will not toweh them. But nether gold not touch them. But neither gold nor the gods of civilization will tempt them to labor, and there is no tempt them to labor, and there is no human power, apparently, which will drag them off from their rude caves, on the mountain side and make them labor for the white man.

One of the favoriteatortures among the natives of the region about the valley of the Volador is to strip their victim and bind him naked to a stake. In a moment his body will be litterally covered with mosquitoes, and in a half hour's time it will be enormously awelled. The torture is indescribable.

A CURIOUS FIND.

A Woodman Takes a Human Jaw bone From a Tree

Mr. W. A. Blair, of 309 West Peters street, has in his possession what he thinks is the jawbone of a human skull, which was found in the center of a Carroll county tree severa months ago

Mr. Blair has a small wooden box Mr. Blair has a small wooden box containing two wooden blocks and in one of the latter there are what looks like a fawbone and a row of teeth, re-sembling human teeth very much. The only explanation Mr. Blain thinks that can be offered of the thinks that can be offered of the strange find is that a man was mur-dered and his body fastened to the tree by a wedge being driven through the skull into the tree. In support of that theory there is what looks like a wedge running slantingly through the block containing the bone.

Mr. Blair thinks the murdered man's body must have been left hanging in the tree and that in time the skull was entirely covered by the growth of the tree.—Atlanta Consti-tution.
